GAMES HEROES CALL FOR COUNCIL U-TURN

A HOST of top sports stars, including London 2012 heroes Mo Farah and David Weir, have written to Barking and Dagenham Council over its decision to withdraw from the London Youth Games in 2013.

Youth Games organisers said borough officials signalled their intention to withdraw from the competition in September due to the cost of taking part.

Each borough is asked to pay a registration fee of £7,200 per year. A spokesman for the Youth Games explained that for every pound spent by local authorities, another £3 comes in from other funding sources including Balfour Beatty and Sport England.

Barking and Dagenham will be the only borough out of 33 in London not to take part.

The list of stars, which also included Olympians Christine Ohuruogu, Gemma Gibbons, Zoe Smith, Chemmy Alcott, Steve Backley and Mark Hunter, along with England footballer Rachel Yankey and rugby player Maggie Alphonsi, wrote to the council in late October.

They urged council leader Liam Smith to reconsider the decision citing it as a 'mistake for the young people of Barking and Dagenham'.

They received no reply. "As former participants in the London Youth Games, we are fully aware of the positive impact it has had on our own sporting careers and continues to have on young people in communities right across London," they said.

"For sport to become an integral part of a healthy lifestyle, it is really important that a young person's early exposure to competitive sport is one that encourages them to stay involved.

"The games provide a rare opportunity for young people to identify closer with their community. It also allows young people to develop their social skills by bringing them together with others in a fun and friendly environment."

As well as working with the 33 local authorities in the capital, the London Youth Games also works with 26 of sport's national governing bodies to ensure the young people are exposed to the right level of competition at the right stage of their development.

Despite writing to the council more than two months ago, London

Youth Games has received no reply from Mr Smith or anyone else at the council to discuss a way forward. The Youth Games added that all attempts at discussion via letter, e-mail and in person had been met with no response.

Yellow Advertiser also requested a comment from Barking and Dagenham Council on the matter, but received no response.

The council did announce in December that it planned to hold its own Community Games across two days in June this year.

At that time, Mr Smith said: "We have been involved in pan-London sports competitions for some time, but this new event gives us a better chance to showcase our own unique status as a borough with a real affinity with sport."

■ Ghost Story Competition

WINNER - Home by Gerry Sweeney from Cranham

BOOTS crunching, scrunching, slamming down hard on tarmacadam. Scratchy sand left far behind. No clinging Passchendaele mud here. No Dunkirk beach or cobbled Berlin Street. No boggy fields of Crossmaglen. Razor sharp creases and polished toe caps reflecting back the glistening steel of fixed bayonet in the crisp November sun.

The Regiment is Home.

Crowds cheering. Flags waving, wafted side to side by little boys not yet tainted by the world, pretending to be the men that sweep before them in uniformed triumph.

Left and right and left and right and left and right. Sergeant Major's screamed commands echoing back from the buildings that frame the market square. Red, white and blue bunting cascade from shop fronts, creating a kaleidoscope of patriotic greeting. The boots crunch and scrunch in perfect harmony along with chests swelled and ram rod backs. A step out of sync would be unthinkable. But then, the unthinkable had been a daily occurrence for the last six months. A missed step then could mean the triggering of an improvised explosive device. A missed sweep of eye to front or rear could mean the unseen arc of metal as the mortar round rent the air and created a living hell.

To see through bloodied eyes the tangled mess that once were legs or be aware that the arms that once held a sweetheart were no longer there. For a moment, a fleeting moment, the clapping hands and cheering of onlookers black out the memories of horror that haunt these brave soldiers, home from a war that no-one wants to them to fight. When will their nightmares begin?

But then I have not come home. I march along but I am not there. I see to one side, my mother and father but they do not see me. Mother sobbing. Her tears staining the framed photograph of her son in number one uniform, as my father supports her.

He cries silently. There are no more tears for him, only an engulfing emptiness. Suddenly he pushes to the front. He tries to touch the passing, swinging arms in a final gesture of contact. My mother gently pulls him back into the crows. I salute him and call out that I will be forever his son.

As so my battalion of proud soldiers continue to march with our regiment. Left and right and left and right and left and right, our boots do not crunch or scrunch for we are not there.

We no longer live. We are the soldiers that have not come home with our comrades in arms.

We are the ghosts of war.

WINNER: Gerry Sweeney.

SECOND PLACE - 'The Ghost Who Came To Tea' by Cora Livesey from Woodford Green

"YOU know I don't care for coffee cake," said Alfred's Ghost, pulling a face.

Alice wondered how she could pacify him. He was always so picky about his food. Well there's seed cake, or he could try the cheesecake, she thought.

"You know I only like chocolate cake," said Alfred's Ghost, scowling, as he sat in his chair at the tea table, surly and sulking, invisible to all but his widow.

Alice's two guests guzzled happily. "How have you been keeping, dear?" asked Cousin Susan as she nibbled the corner of a cucumber sandwich.

Cousin Letitia fixed her expression in what she hoped was a kind, sympathetic gaze, understanding of the trials of widowhood. "How are you, Alice?" she murmured in trembling tones.

"I'm alright, thank you," Alice said. Out of the corner of her eye she could see the Ghost. He was drumming his fingers impatiently on the table top.

"I expect you get lonely, don't you?" Cousin Letitia said, a mite tactlessly, Alice thought.

"Well...." said Alice.

"Where's my tea?" demanded Alfred's Ghost. Alice ignored him.

"Alfred was such a good, unselfish, kind man," Cousin Susan said.

"Everyone always said what a thoughtful, gentle, patient man he was..." chimed in Cousin Letitia.

"Yes, everyone always said so," she replied. Inside she said to herself, "If only they'd known the real Alfred."

Meanwhile, Alfred's Ghost was working himself up into a frenzy. "Alice, this food is terrible!" He began to shout, raising his voice, petulant like a spoilt child.

"This is a lovely afternoon tea," Cousin Letitia said to Alice.

Cousin Susan agreed as she helped herself to a slice of coffee cake.

"Home made?" she asked Alice.

"Yes, I always like to bake my own cakes," replied Alice.

"Fancy yourself a cook? Nothing on this table is any good!", the Ghost grumbled nastily. "No bloody chocolate cake!" He banged the table with his fist.

Alice stiffened. In a minute he'd have swept all the tea things to the floor in one of his blind rages. The Ghost's face was now bright red with rage and shouting. Then, just as she knew it would, the Ghost's right arm swept across the table, meaning to smash everything, plates and cakes and crockery, all to the floor. Alice watched as the Ghost's arm swept through the plates and cakes and crockery. Nothing happened! Everything on the table stayed exactly where it was! Alfred's Ghost was just a ghost, after all. Alice sipped her tea as she watched as Alfred's Ghost tried to pull the tablecloth from the table. The cloth didn't budge. "Another slice of cake, Cousin Susan?" asked Alice. The ghost of a smile played about Alice's lips. Thanks to the secret ingredients in that lovely, spicy chocolate cake she'd baked specially for him, she would never be troubled by the real Alfred again. Just by his relatives, from time to time. But she could cope with that.

CHILDREN'S WINNER The Glass-Eyed Army by Reagan Furnevel, 11, from Basildon

THE SUN beat down on the fairground. Ben had been saving his money for weeks and finally had enough to spend on the rides, sweets and mountains of candyfloss. The ride, Glass Eyes, was the one ride everyone wanted to go on, and it was Ben's chance. He got in line, even though there was an hour's wait. The line went down quicker than Ben expected. It didn't seem like an hour, yet maybe it was. Who knows? Just as he was about to go in, something eerie hung in the air, just outside the entrance. He could have turned back. Maybe he didn't want to. Why? Who knows, but if he knew his life would change forever, he wouldn't have gone in. He stepped through the entrance and a cold rush hit him, sending waves of shivers down his back. As he walked though the hall, he saw rows and rows of what he assumed to be dummies. They had human features, but their eyes were glassy. Ben took no notice – well, would you? The ride was called Glass Eyes after all. At the start of the ride there were five men, all in white suits and black sunglasses. Ben and the group were told to sit down, and they were buckled into a cart. The lights went off and they were plunged into darkness. They started to move, going down, like an elevator. They didn't stop for a while, but when they did it was in pitch dark. "Aaahhhh!" Screams were heard from the other carts. An ear piercing scraping sound was heard. It sounded like metal against metal and suddenly, a horrible, razor-sharp blade slid down Ben's arm. Blood trickled out and onto the floor. Ben started to feel tired, almost paralysed. His eyes folded closed. He wasn't sure he would open them again, and he slipped into oblivion. Eventually, Ben opened his eyes. All seemed different now. For a start he was in a different room. But there was something else. He saw things different – like things were all shadows, blurred shapes. Nothing was clear. He could just about make out the female he was sitting next to on the ride. She was next to him, motionless, with wide eyes, not blinking. Then Ben realised; he was not blinking either. No one was. Their eyes seemed glassy. Foggy. Just like the dummies in the hall. But this is the hall, and rows of the dummies were standing by him. Another group walked past and Ben tried to stop them. Yet no voice came out, he couldn't move. It was too late. No one could save them now. No one could save the latest recruits joining the glass eyed army.

Winners of hospice lottery claim prizes

LUCKY winners have picked up their prizes following Saint Francis Hospice's lottery draw at the end of 2012.

Dawn Goodwin, from Dagenham, and Marion Lucy, from Wanstead, both chose to win an iPad3 in the draw, while Leonard Randall, from Hornchurch, picked up a 42-inch TV, which he then donated to his daughter Tanya.

Meanwhile, Mark Barbour, from Benfleet, won the first prize of £1,000.

The win has come at a great time for the 37-year-old, who is getting married in June to his fiancée, Carly Forsdyke.

It was Carly's mother, Elaine, who is a health-care assistant at the Havering-atte-Bower based hospice, that encouraged Mark to take part in the lottery.

"The money will go towards our wedding day at the Friern Manor Hotel" said Mark.

To take part in the lottery, visit www.sfh.org.uk, call 01708 771433 or visit any Saint Francis Hospice shop. It costs £1 a week to play and you can pay by direct debit.

WINNER: Mark Barbour will put his winnings towards his wedding.

Enjoy wildlife haven throughout the year

By Suzi Muston

RAINHAM Marshes is a fantastic place to enjoy a walk, jog or a cycle under big skies in a picturesque setting.

The 353 hectare site in New Tank Hill Road (A1090) in Purfleet, is located on ancient marshland next to the River Thames near the Dartford Crossing.

There is a brand new cycling route that links Rainham with Purfleet. It runs alongside the reserve hugging the river, passing the stone barges and offers magnificent views of the Thames with the Queens Elizabeth bridge in the distance.

The site's incredible transformation from a Ministry of Defence firing range has also included boardwalks throughout the reserve to give access for wheelchairs and pushchairs.

At this time of year, visitors will find a host of colourful birds including bullfinches, ringed plovers, oystercatchers, golden plovers, water and rock pipits, little egrets, snipe, chifchaffs, curlews, lapwings, dunlins, redshanks, shelducks, peregrines and the elusive kingfisher.

The marshes were closed to the public for more than 100 years.

The RSPB acquired the site in 2000 and transformed it into an important wildlife haven.

CLOSER LOOK: Brenda Clayton and Terri Hart enjoy the RSPB centre at Rainham Marshes. Picture by Martin Dalton

Now you can expect to see breeding wading birds in spring and summer, and large flocks of wild ducks in winter.

Birds of prey and rare birds are regularly seen too.

At this time of year, visitors are urged to look out for large flocks of birds gathering to feed, or flying at dusk to form large roosts to keep warm.

Also at this time of year visitors will be able to witness enormous swirling flocks of lapwings and golden plovers shimmering in the winter sky.

Winter also brings the hunting peregrines plummeting after waders and ducks.

In summer, you will be able to witness young birds making their first venture into the outside world.

Autumn brings large movements of migrating birds - some heading south to a warmer climate, others seeking refuge in the UK from the cold Arctic winter.

There is an innovative eco-friendly visitor centre, with huge windows that look out across the marshes.

There is also a shop and cafe and a new wildlife garden and children's adventure play area too.

Rainham Marshes offers a full year round events programme for families and school groups.

Food poisoning probe continues

THE Health Protection Agency (HPA) is continuing to investigate an outbreak of food poisoning associated with a Hornchurch pub.

The probe comes after a 46-year-old woman died on December 27.

Della Callagher had lunch at the Railway Hotel, in Station Lane, on Christmas Day with a group of friends.

The agency said a further 30 people reported symptoms of gastrointestinal illness after eating at the venue, also on Christmas Day.

The HPA said laboratory testing confirmed the presence of Clostridium perfringens bacteria in a number of samples submitted by diners who experienced symptoms, including the patient who died.

Dr Deborah Turbitt, director of the HPA's local Health Protection Unit, said the illness generally lasted no more than a few days although vulnerable groups such as very young children, elderly people, and those with underlying health problems could be more seriously affected.

Ms Turbitt said: "It is rare for a person to die as a direct result of food poisoning.

"Clostridium perfringens bacteria occurs in relation to red meat or poultry.

"It is the third most common cause of food poisoning in the UK. Indications suggest that this outbreak is an isolated event.

"People become unwell on average after about 12 hours of eating food contaminated with Clostridium perfringens, with diarrhoea and abdominal pain being the main symptoms.

"Our thoughts are with the family at this sad time. We have been working with Environmental Health Officers at Havering Council to identify the cause of illness and any links to food eaten at the venue. The venue has been co-operating fully with our investigations."

Ms Callagher attended Queen's Hospital accident and emergency department on Boxing Day reporting symptoms of food poisoning.

She was treated by medics and then went home the same day.

Havering Council's cabinet member for public protection, Councillor Lesley Kelly, said: "I am very sorry to hear of this sad death and my thoughts are with the family at this time.

"Our officers have visited the premises and are content that it meets food safety regulations and that it can continue to serve food until the investigation is concluded."

Medical director, Dr Mike Gill, said: "A patient attended our emergency department on Boxing Day with what appeared to be food poisoning.

"The patient was seen and fully assessed by a senior clinician, and given appropriate treatment and advice before returning home.

"The Trust followed accepted medical practice. We will be fully reviewing the case.

"We have written to the family offering our condolences at this very difficult time and inviting them to meet with medical staff who can answer any queries or concerns they may have."

A spokesperson for the Railway Hotel in Hornchurch said: "We would like to offer our sincere condolences to the Callagher family at this very difficult time. The local authority is currently investigating an alleged food poisoning incident at the Railway and we are co-operating fully with them to ascertain the cause or source. We are also carrying out a thorough internal investigation. Until these investigations are complete we are unable to provide any further details."

INVESTIGATION: The Railway Hotel is being investigated by health bosses.

Picture by Martin Dalton

People who become unwell with symptoms of food poisoning are advised to drink plenty of fluids and take rest at home. If symptoms are particularly severe or do not settle within two days then they should seek medical advice.

Ex-Visteon workers continue fight with Ford over pensions

By Pat Jones

IF MEDALS were given out for persistence a group of pensioners – many from Essex – would walk away with gold.

Former workers from failed car parts firm Visteon UK have fought doggedly, first for decent redundancy terms, and for the past three-and-half-years for the full pensions promised when they transferred from Ford in 2000.

Now 2013 looks like being a highly significant year for Visteon Pension Action Group (VPAG), after its campaign of demonstrations, lobbying of Ford plants, government departments and political party conferences, and a recent Parliamentary debate attended by MPs and ministers who unanimously supported the motion that Ford owes a duty of care to the Visteon Pensioners.

The group's High Court challenge to Ford is due to be heard early in the year, an all party group of MPs is lobbying for the pensioners, moves are being made to initiate a select committee hearing in the House of Commons, a hearing of the Welsh Affairs committee and a Private Members' Bill.

"We are determined to get what we were promised by Ford when we agreed to transfer to Visteon," said Andy Belch, the VPAG member responsible for liaising with MPs and the press.

"We have attracted a great deal of support along the way and now we hope it will bear fruit.

"We are campaigning for the pensions we worked for and contributed to. At the moment members are getting between 15 and 50 per cent less than they expected and are due, and many face financial difficulties because of that. The court will decide the legal issue – we are pushing the moral aspect," he added.

Unite union issued proceedings in the High Court Chancery Division, in the name of one pensioner, Dennis Varney, on the group's behalf in January 2011.

Since then a further 1,400 pensioners have applied to join in a class action.

"We are looking forward to the case being heard and grateful to Unite for its help," Mr Belch added.

"The support we are receiving from MPs of all parties is a tremendous filip. Stephen Metcalfe, who represents South Basildon and East Thurrock, has been a tremendous help setting up the all-party group.

That group holds evidence hearings – and although it has no powers to force witnesses to attend – it has amassed a lot of useful information.

It has three further hearings scheduled for the first three months of this year.

Mr Belch added: "We were very lucky, too, that the annual chance for an MP to call a debate on his or her chosen topic was won by Mike Freer, who represents Finchley and Golders Green, for the chance to highlight our predicament.

"I am told 22 MPs from all parties attended the debate, which apparently is a record for that type of debate."

"We know plans are afoot to try for select committee hearings here and in Wales."

Former Ford staff had been promised terms mirroring those they enjoyed with the car giant when it set up Visteon plants in Basildon, Enfield, Belfast and Swansea to supply it with parts.

However the business never made a profit and was closed in March 2009, when all the workers lost their jobs.

The workers refused to go quietly.

They occupied the firm's plants until they were given better redundancy terms than first offered.

Then when it became clear they would only receive a fraction of the pensions they had worked, battle lines were drawn and Visteon Pension Action Group (VPAG) set up.

Ford has always maintained Visteon pensioners are not its responsibility.

In a recent statement a spokesman said: "Visteon became an independent company in 2000 and was responsible for its own business decisions.

"Ford fully discharged both its legal and moral responsibilities to former Visteon UK employees.

"Ford was not involved in Visteon UK Directors' 2009 decision to put Visteon UK into administration. Consequently, Ford believes that questions regarding VisteonUK being placed into administration and the subsequent impact on the Visteon Pension fund should be answered by Visteon UK management and the trustees of the VisteonPension Fund.

"Visteon still operates today as a large scale automotive component supplier across Europe, Asia Pacific and the Americas."

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968 and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative. To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

- Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
- Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or

(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement should the advertising agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-reference agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes. Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

(a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;

(b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or / days specified by the advertiser; or

(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes (which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republishing or allowance).

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement should the appointed agent fail to pay, for the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for settling the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belongs to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing material. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies. Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.
